

In an effort to determine activities and programs which are of interest to our Scouts we encourage our Teams to survey the Scouts of their own Team to identify what interests them.

We also ask that Scouts keep a scrapbook with information about which activities they participated in, who they participated with, and their thoughts about the activity. We use the scrapbooks to see which activities Scouts really liked so we can provide more of them. In an effort to determine activities and programs which are of interest to those youth within the local community who are not members of the Scout Movement we support at all levels of our Scout Program including at the team level, the surveying of local area youth and families to identify what interests them.

While not everyone will identify or share the same interests, we encourage the participation of all, since our Teams are democratically governed by the Scouts within each Team, and they appreciate the interests of each other and consequently try to fulfill the aspirations of each of its Scouts.

Each of our teams has its own character, and prospective Scouts are encouraged to visit teams in their area to determine which team's activities are most interesting to them.
